Understanding Your Visit, Insurance and Out of Pocket Costs

We know that insurance plans, billing terms, and medical costs can be confusing and frustrating; you're not alone. While it's ultimately your responsibility to know your coverage, our goal is to guide and support you as much as possible.

Reading this will help avoid surprises and ensure the best possible experience during your visit.

Health Insurance Basics

- Copay: A set fee you pay when you check in (e.g., $25–$50).
- Deductible: The amount you pay out-of-pocket each year before insurance starts paying.
- Coinsurance: After meeting your deductible, you may still owe a percentage of the bill (e.g., 20%).

These costs are set by your insurance company — not by us.

Why Your Visit May Include Extra Charges

Many dermatology visits involve procedures (treatments, biopsies, removals), which are billed separately from your office visit. We try to take care of issues the same day so you don't have to come back. When that happens, your insurance may apply your deductible and coinsurance, resulting in a higher bill — especially if you haven't met your deductible. This can lead to higher out-of-pocket costs than you may have expected when you check out after your appointment has concluded.

How Dermatology Differs From Your Primary Care Provider

- Dermatology visits often include procedures, even during routine exams. Insurance treats these as separate, billable services.
- Unlike primary care, you may owe more than just your copay.

We bill strictly based on what was done during the visit, per insurance rules.

Why We Don't Bill As Preventive Care

Dermatology visits are billed as specialist office visits, not preventive or "annual" wellness visits. Even if your appointment is for a routine skin check, insurance will process it under your specialist benefits and standard copay/deductible rules. Preventive visit coverage through your insurance generally applies only to your primary care provider.

What a Typical Visit Might Look Like

This is a general example of what a dermatology visit may look like—from check-in to follow-up—and how your insurance plan may determine what you owe.

1. You arrive and pay your copay at check-in, which covers the office visit/exam.
2. During the visit, the provider finds a suspicious lesion and performs a biopsy, and may also freeze a few growths. These are separate procedures, billed in addition to the office visit.
3. At checkout, our front desk works with our clinical team to estimate your out-of-pocket cost based on your insurance plan.
4. If you have a deductible remaining or coinsurance, we may collect a portion of that amount before you leave.
5. The biopsy is sent to an outside lab, which may send you a separate bill based on your plan's benefits.
6. After insurance processes your claim, you may receive a bill from us for any remaining balance applied to your deductible or coinsurance.

I acknowledge that I have read and reviewed the information above regarding my visit, insurance billing, financial responsibility, and how charges may be applied based on my insurance plan. I understand that the details provided are intended to help me better navigate my care and avoid unexpected costs.
